Academic Advising

Megan Sanbury, Director of the Advising Center

website: <https://www.wm.edu/offices/advising/>

Academic advising is recognized at William & Mary as a natural extension of the teaching responsibilities of faculty members because it is crucial to the educational development of students. With sound academic advising, students can plan an exciting and coherent liberal arts education that prepares them to reach their personal and professional goals.

At William & Mary, academic advising is housed within the Advising Center (TAC). TAC assigns faculty advisors to incoming students. New students, including entering transfer students, meet with their faculty advisors three times in their first year at William & Mary; at these meetings they plan a program of study that suits their interests and that meets the university's academic regulations and requirements. Students must attend these meetings to register for the following semester.

Although students may change their advisor by submitting a request to the Advising Center, most retain their initial advisor until they declare their major, which is usually in the sophomore year. When students declare, they choose an advisor in the department, program, or school in which they are completing a major. Students declaring two majors are assigned an advisor in both majors. For details on when students can or must declare a major, see the Catalog section, "Requirements for Degrees".

Students preparing for careers in medicine, veterinary science, pharmacy, dentistry, physical therapy, law, engineering, education, or business should consult with the pre-professional faculty advisors for these programs. In addition, all students can supplement the guidance of their faculty advisor by consulting the professional advisors who staff the advising center who can provide additional guidance on academic planning, policy, academic exceptions, and national fellowship opportunities.

William & Mary Libraries

Mission and Services

William & Mary Libraries provide the spaces, resources, technology, and expertise to support and enhance learning, research and scholarship. Universities of the highest caliber, like William & Mary, must have a library system of equal stature. William & Mary Libraries strives to be an exceptional organization and a fundamental partner in teaching and learning.

We place tremendous value on our users, and we try to anticipate their needs and spark their curiosity with our collections, services, and facilities. Our services are often individualized and high-touch: we offer over a 1,000 one-on-one consultations with students every year, teach hundreds of classes, and host events for groups aligned with our mission.

Our libraries, especially the Earl Gregg Swem Library, are popular with students and faculty; last year our users visited our campus libraries 1.16 million times, an impressive number for a library system at a small-sized university. Each year we record more visits than the year before, a trend that stretches back more than a decade. Other busy and innovative branches include the Wolf Law Library, Music Library, School of Education's Learning Resource Center, Hargis Library at VIMS, McLeod Business Library, and reading rooms in Physics and Chemistry.

We, at William & Mary Libraries, are committed to fostering an environment where diversity, inclusion and equity are viewed as fundamental to our mission. We strive to create a climate of belonging, which we believe promotes self-agency, participation, collaboration and innovation.

Technology

Approximately 120 high-end PCs, each loaded with a large suite of productivity applications and specialized course software, are located on the first floor. Computers in the adjacent Learning Center classroom are available for use when classes are not scheduled. There are numerous open network ports for laptop connections, and each floor is configured for wireless access. Thirty-two group study rooms are located throughout the library for group collaboration and presentation practice. A makerspace provides multiple high-end 3D printers, sewing machine, vinyl cutter and button making machine for students to use.

Collections

W&M Libraries' e-resources are extraordinary: hundreds of databases, tens of thousands of e-journals, streaming audio and video collections, and millions of e-books, both newly published and digital primary sources from the beginning of the print era. Our physical collections include over 1.2 million books; 50,000 rare books; thousands of periodicals; 2 million archival, manuscript, and other primary source materials; and media in a wide range of formats. Lastly, our digitized collections comprise exhibits of original content from the beginning years of the university to the papers of Thomas Jefferson. Together, these collections constitute a resource of major importance to the institution and researchers everywhere. Library resources can be accessed via the online catalog at <http://libraries.wm.edu>.

Research Services

Librarians teach students to use online licensed materials, emphasize the value of print in the research process, introduce students to primary and historical resources, and expose them to the larger world of information. Students can connect with research librarians in person or by phone, email, text or online chat to discuss a class assignment or for advice on finding, evaluating and using library resources. More info at <https://libraries.wm.edu/about/contact-us>.

Partnerships

Swem Library shares building space and active partnerships with the Writing Center, Tribe Tutor Zone, the Advising Center, Center for Geospatial Analysis, and similar services that offer assistance to undergraduates.

W&M students, faculty and staff receive library privileges at the Williamsburg Regional Library with their W&M ID, including those who do not live in Williamsburg, James City County or York County.

Circulation and Reserves

The Circulation and Reserves Department helps patrons identify and locate materials in the library; answers questions about library policies; manages patron records; checks out library materials and equipment, and manages course reserves. All of the library's materials are available for use within the library, and most items can be borrowed for use outside the building. The W&M ID card serves as the library card for students, staff, and faculty. All patrons have access to their account by visiting clicking on "My Account" located below the catalog search box. Contact the Circulation and Reserves Departments at 221-3072 or libraries@wm.edu.

Interlibrary Loans

If a book, journal article, or other item is not available at W&M, it can usually be borrowed from another library. Articles usually arrive within 2-3 days; books within a week. Requests for materials may be submitted at <https://libraries.wm.edu/services/borrowing/interlibrary-loan-ill>. Questions? Contact the Interlibrary Loan Department at (757) 221-3089 (option 1) or sweill@wm.edu.

Reeder Media Center

Swem Library's Reeder Media Center services are available to W&M students, staff and faculty. Production studios are equipped with a wide array of software and hardware for the creation of multimedia projects. With a full-time staff, loanable production equipment, and an array of industry-standard software, the Media Center is capable of supporting a wide range of multimedia projects from pre-production to post-production to digital distribution. Contact the center at <https://libraries.wm.edu/services/media-services> or (757) 221-1378.

Special Collections Research Center

The Special Collections Research Center includes university archives, manuscripts and rare books, as well as unique collections such as the papers of Chief Justice Warren E. Burger. University archives documents the history of William & Mary from its founding in 1693 to the present through student publications, photographs, official records, artifacts, memorabilia, and other materials relating to the college. The manuscript collections include letters, diaries, journals, scrapbooks, business records, and other items that cover everything from social movements to the day-to-day experiences of people from all walks of life. The rare books collection includes books dating from the 1400s to today, and focuses on Virginia history, gardening and natural history, religion, dogs, book arts, travel, science, and medicine. For more information, visit <https://libraries.wm.edu/research/special-collections>.

Library Hours

Swem's normal operating hours are Mondays-Thursdays, 8 a.m.-2 a.m.; Fridays, 8 a.m.-8 p.m.; Saturdays, 10 a.m.-8 p.m.; and Sundays, 10 a.m.-2 a.m. During final exams, the library stays open 24 hours. Hours vary throughout the year, especially during interim periods and holidays. Visit <https://libraries.wm.edu> to confirm Swem hours and to check operating hours for the branch libraries.

Student Health Center

Dr. David Dafashy, Director

McLeod-Tyler Wellness Center

(757) 221-4386

Website: <https://www.wm.edu/health>

The Student Health Center provides a full-range of primary care services including the evaluation, treatment and prevention of all kinds of acute or chronic physical, mental and social health issues. Our clinical staff includes Board-certified physicians and nurse practitioners, registered nurses, laboratory technicians, a pharmacist, and several support staff, all of whom deliver high-quality patient care to full time students at the College. The Student Health Center is accredited through the Accreditation Association of Ambulatory Health Care, Inc. (AAAHHC). This accreditation affirms that the Health Center meets and will continue to demonstrate the attributes as reflected in the standards of the accrediting body.

Detailed information about Student Health Center services, clinic hours and appointment scheduling, after-hours healthcare resources, university health requirements, fees and charges, as well as common forms and documents can be found on our website. There is fee for office visits, as well as a fee for certain services, labs, pharmacy and medical supplies. All matters between a student and the Health Center staff are confidential and will not be released without the student's written consent (except in the case of life threatening situations, medical emergencies, severe emotional or psychological distress, or when required and/or permitted by law).

Virginia state law requires all full-time students who are enrolling in a four-year public institution to provide a health history and an official immunization record. The university further requires all full-time students (including previously matriculated students) as well as any other student eligible for services as determined by their department (i.e. Language House tutors, students with an approved underload, or transfer students) to provide documentation of the same immunization requirements and health history. This form will not be accepted if the physician completing and signing the form is a family member. Previously enrolled students who are reentering as full-time students after an absence of 2 years or more must update their forms to meet current requirements. Additionally, enrolled students who are reentering as full-time students after an absence from campus of 6 years or more must resubmit the entire form. This information MUST be submitted through William & Mary's Online Health Portal. To be eligible for medical care, students must have paid a Health Fee for the current semester and completed the Health Evaluation Form. Failure to comply with this requirement will result in the following actions: prevention from registering for classes, ineligibility for non-urgent medical care at the Student Health Center, the assessment of a fine on your student account, and may also result in eviction from the residence halls and/or removal from campus (depending on the medical issue).

The university requires all full-time undergraduate and graduate students and all F-1 and J-1 international students to have adequate health insurance coverage throughout the school year as a condition of enrollment. The university sponsors a comprehensive Student Insurance Plan as an option for these students. Every academic year, these students must either elect to enroll in or waive out of the Student Insurance Plan to comply with this requirement. Those students who do not submit an approved Waiver or Enrollment form by the posted Billing Due Date will have the Health Insurance Policy charge posted to their student account and will be financially responsible for the charge UNLESS they file an approved Waiver by the Final Waiver Deadline. It is the student's responsibility to verify whether or not the charge has been billed to their student account. If there is a billing error, you should contact the Student Insurance Coordinator immediately. To access the Waiver or Enrollment form links and for more information about the Insurance Requirement or Student Insurance Plan, please visit www.wm.edu/studentinsurance (<https://www.wm.edu/studentinsurance>).

Student Success

Wilmarie Rodriguez, Assistant Vice President for Student Success
Sadler Center, 185
(757) 221-1327

Website: <https://www.wm.edu/studentsuccess>

Student Success supports each student's personal growth, development, engagement, and belonging by providing holistic guidance as they navigate their own William & Mary journey. The Student Success Thematic Area consists of three departments:

Academic Wellbeing

The office of Academic Wellbeing strives to guide students to the successful completion of their educational goals. By connecting students with professionals who understand that life extends beyond the classroom, Academic Wellbeing aims to take a holistic approach in helping students navigate both the academic and extracurricular aspects of their lives. Students can connect by walking into Suite 184 on the lower level of the Sadler Center, making an appointment through their website (<https://www.wm.academicwellbeing>), or emailing academicwellbeing@wm.edu.

Care Support Services

Care Support Services compassionately assists and empowers students in managing interpersonal, academic, and wellness concerns by offering advocacy and connection to resources. Students can connect by walking into Suite 161 on the lower level of the Sadler Center, making an appointment through their website (<https://www.wm.edu/care>), or emailing care@wm.edu. Faculty, staff, students, and family members can submit a care concern when they think a student may need support and a trained support staff will reach out to the student to discuss resources. Please be aware that Care Support Services is not an emergency response department; please contact WMPD or 911 for emergencies.

Student Accessibility Services

Student Accessibility Services (SAS) offers reasonable accommodations upon request on an individual basis through the interactive process. We strive to foster student independence, to encourage self-determination, to emphasize empowerment and accommodation over limitation, and to create a comprehensive, accessible environment to ensure that individuals are viewed on the basis of contribution, not deficit. SAS works under the guidelines of the Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990. Students who have a disability are encouraged to contact Student Accessibility Services and submit all documentation as early as possible by walking into Suite 181 on the lower level of the Sadler Center, making an appointment through their website (<https://www.wm.edu/sas>), or emailing sas@wm.edu. Accommodations are not retroactive.

Counseling Center

Dr. Carina Sudarsky-Gleiser, Director
McLeod-Tyler Wellness Center
(757) 221-3620

Website: <https://www.wm.edu/counselingcenter>

The Counseling Center supports the mental and emotional wellness of the community by offering a range of prevention and intervention services to William & Mary enrolled students. Our services include educational programming, short-term individual, couples, and group counseling, as well as crisis intervention, and referrals within and outside of the university, based on the student's specific needs.

The Counseling Center employs a diverse group of mental health professionals from the fields of psychology, counseling, and social work, who possess different social identities, and attend to the diversity of the student body. All staff members are trained, experienced, and sensitive to the needs and concerns experienced by university students.

Initial consultation appointments to speak with a counselor about your concerns and explore the services that may be the best fit can be scheduled by calling the Counseling Center at 757-221-3620, visit the Center in person, or booking online. Office hours are 8 a.m.-noon and 1 p.m. - 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. For urgent concerns or emergencies, students can visit the Center during business hours or contact a counselor after-hours and on weekends by calling 757-221-3620.

Students have also access to virtual mental healthcare services through TimelyCare - a online health and well-being platform. Students can schedule ongoing counseling, use TalkNow for on-demand mental health support 24/7 and/or engage in health coaching to develop healthy lifestyle behaviors. There is no cost for these services for students who have paid the Health & Wellness fee. Services can be accessed by visiting the TimelyCare website (<https://timelycare.com/>) or downloading the TimelyCare app for mobile devices. First-time users should use their William & Mary email address to register and create an account. All new students are encouraged to visit the site/download the app and create an account upon arrival at William & Mary to help ensure quick and simple access to services at any time during enrollment.

To easily access up to date information about the Counseling Center and other Health & Wellness resources, students may download the W&M Wellness app for mobile devices.

Student Center for Inclusive Excellence ("The Center")

Monique Williams, Director
Sadler Center, Suite 268
(757) 221-2300

Website: <https://www.wm.edu/t> (<https://www.wm.edu/studentdiversity>)hecenter (<https://www.wm.edu/offices/psi/thecenter/>)

The Student Center for Inclusive Excellence ("The Center") champions student access, belonging, and community connection through affirming spaces, cultural programming, and student-centered engagement — empowering every student to thrive as their authentic self at William &

Mary. Consistent with William & Mary's Inclusive Excellence Framework, the Student Center for Inclusive Excellence creates a welcoming and caring community that embraces diverse people and perspectives:

- We connect students with opportunities and resources that support their academic journey from day one through graduation. (Access & Success)
- We create a welcoming environment where students feel valued, connected, and at home on campus. (Campus Climate)
- We offer programs that inspire curiosity, dialogue, and exploration of identity, culture, and social responsibility. (Education & Scholarship)
- We strengthen leadership and systems to ensure sustainable, measurable impact. (Organizational Culture & Accountability)
- We seek to bridge the past and future to celebrate heritage, honor legacies, and foster connection and understanding. (Innovation, Reconciliation, & Community)

Throughout the academic year, The Student Center for Inclusive Excellence hosts a variety of signature events and programs designed to foster identity exploration, cultural curiosity, meaningful conversation, and student-centered education. These events and programs create space for students to connect across communities, engage in critical dialogue, and celebrate the richness of our diverse campus.

Our commitment to enhancing the success, well-being, and full participation of all students also extends to offering resources that facilitate cultural awareness and intercultural competence for all students. We achieve this through the exploration and celebration of one's own identities and deep understanding of the diverse identities with student-led initiatives supported by our office.

We work with various campus partners and affiliates to provide LGBTQ +, religious, spiritual, and faith-based supportive services and advocacy to support for all members of our campus community. We manage the Kaleidoscope Closet, a campus resource designed to provide clothing and accessories that affirm identity, support self-expression, and foster confidence. We also manage the Prayer and Meditation Room to provide a peaceful and calm space for quiet reflection, individual prayer, and meditation, regardless of religious affiliation. You can access each of these campus resources by visiting the Sadler Center.

Students are encouraged to visit Monday – Friday, 8am-8pm to connect with the Student Center for Inclusive Excellence team and student ambassadors.

Gender-Based Violence Resources & Advocacy Services

Liz Cascone, Senior Director

Website: <https://www.wm.edu/gbvras>

1. The Haven

Sadler Center, Suite 146P

(757) 221-2449

Email: Thehaven@wm.edu

Website: <https://www.wm.edu/thehaven>

The Haven is a confidential, welcoming, and inclusive resource center for those impacted by sexual violence and harassment, relationship abuse and intimate partner violence, stalking, and other gender-based discrimination. The Haven welcomes all students who are seeking support and connection, have questions or concerns, and need timely health and safety information and resources. The Haven is a place where students can go without a report being made to the school. Trained Confidential Peer Advocates, as well as the professional staff of The Haven, are confidential resources. Confidential resources are NOT required to report incidences of sexual violence and harassment, relationship abuse and intimate partner violence, stalking, and other gender-based discrimination to William & Mary¹. This allows students to get information, support, and resources, hear about reporting options, learn about academic support and campus modifications, and other remedies before taking further action. Most faculty and staff are considered mandated reporters. Please keep this in mind before disclosing your own, or your friends, experiences of gender-based violence. The Haven offers several opportunities for students to connect with others who have had similar experiences through a variety of different groups, sessions, or workshops.

¹ Reports of minors being abused and reports of self-harm/threats to others must be reported.

2. Adaptable Resolution I

Sadler Center, Suite 368

(757) 221-7478

Email: Emcascone@wm.edu

Website: <https://www.wm.edu/offices/communityvalues/gbvras/adaptable-resolutions>

William & Mary recognizes the importance of creating options for resolution of alleged violations of sexual misconduct that consider the needs of the complainant or the "harmed party," some of whom may wish to avoid the formal investigation and resolution process. Adaptable Resolution is a voluntary, remedies-based, facilitated process between or among affected parties that balances support and accountability without resulting in formal disciplinary action against a respondent or the "person who caused harm." It is designed to address the allegations of prohibited conduct, prevent its recurrence, and remedy its effects in a manner that meets the needs of the harmed party, while maintaining the safety of the campus community.

The Office of Career Development & Professional Engagement

Kathleen I. Powell, Chief Career Officer, Associate Vice President for Advancement

180 Stadium Drive

(757) 221-3231

Website: <https://www.wm.edu/career>

We are partners in the educational process, supporting students and recent alumni, by empowering them to navigate career possibilities. The Office of Career Development & Professional Engagement works with students and alumni by supporting one-on-one career advising appointments; career education programming; assisting with resume, cover letter, graduate/professional school search, career and internship search, and interview preparation including mock interviews. Providing access to career opportunities by bringing employers and recruiters to campus, through fairs and events, that include full-time, internships, externships, part-time, and volunteer, as well as postings on TribeCareers, our employer, student, and alumni career engagement platform. The Office of Career Development & Professional Engagement serves all undergraduate students of all majors, and all class years, as well as graduate students in Arts & Sciences, Batten School, and the School of Education.

Reves Center for International Studies

Teresa Longo, Associate Provost for International Affairs
 200 South Boundary Street
 (757) 221 - 3590

The Reves Center for International Studies is the home of the Office of International Students, Scholars and Programs, the Global Education Office and the Global Engagement Team at William & Mary. Our mission is to support and promote the internationalization of learning, teaching, research and community involvement at W&M, and we do this through programs for international students and scholars, education abroad and global engagement across the university.

The Global Engagement Team (GET) assists with the planning and implementation of a number of internationally focused programs, events and initiatives designed to celebrate W&M's international community and to facilitate cross-cultural exchange, as well as hosting endowed lectures and events that bring world-class scholars, analysts, artists, public figures and other distinguished guests to campus. Initiatives include publishing and promoting a variety of publications with an international angle and managing the Reves Room, which is available for internationally focused events hosted by W&M departments, offices, programs, and faculty or staff-sponsored student organizations for official events. The Global Engagement Team also manages a variety of funding opportunities to assist faculty and students undertaking international research, conference attendance and internships. Additionally GET oversees the emergency communications and 24/7 emergency response related to university-sponsored international travel, monitors international developments and assesses risk for overseas travel.

International Students, Scholars, and Programs (ISSP)

Eva Wong, Director
 200 South Boundary Street
 (757) 221 - 3590

The mission of the Office of International Students, Scholars, and Programs is to support and advocate for the success of William & Mary's international community.

We foster the personal, cultural and intellectual development of both the university and global community through holistic, collaborative programs and services.

Our key areas of support and programs include:

Student Support

We provide comprehensive immigration and visa services, sponsoring the F-1 and J-1 student visas.

We support students' transition and success through programs such as International Student Orientation (<https://www.wm.edu/offices/revescenter/issp/newstudents/internationalorientation/orientation/>) and the Virtual Conversation Partner Program.

Community Engagement

Programs such as the Global Friends Program (<http://www.wm.edu/offices/revescenter/issp/programs/isn/>) matches international students with local families, giving both a chance to learn about a different culture, as well as an avenue to connect with the broader local community.

Scholarships

Our funding programs focus on expanding opportunities, recognizing achievement, supporting students with financial hardship, and promoting diversity in the student body.

Leadership Development

Student leadership development is integrated into most of our programs. For example, the International Student Advisory Board (<https://www.wm.edu/offices/revescenter/issp/programs/isab/>) helps students to develop peer mentoring and advocacy skills.

Advocacy and Outreach

Understanding the difficulty our international community often face in navigating various aspects of life on and off-campus, our office serves as an advocate for their needs and concerns. Examples of such advocacy efforts include work with the Office of Student Affairs on student crisis management and working with Academic departments and offices on climate concerns.

globe@wm.edu ; <https://www.wm.edu/offices/revescenter/issp>

Global Education Office (GEO)

Sylvia Mitterdorfer, Director
 200 South Boundary Street
 (757) 221 - 3594

William & Mary has long recognized its responsibility to provide a global perspective to its curriculum so students gain the international understanding necessary to be informed citizens. The university encourages students to view study abroad as an educational objective and recognizes this in the COLL curriculum through COLL 300. When planned in advance and integrated into a student's on-campus academic plan, study abroad can be integral to the liberal arts education, providing cultural enrichment, personal development and intellectual challenge. Typically more than 56% of undergraduate students participate in study abroad by the time they graduate.

The Global Education Office (GEO) assists students with every stage of the study abroad process, collaborates with faculty and departments to develop study abroad programs in line with the educational mission of W&M, and serves as the home for incoming exchange students. The office also administers specialized incoming international programs for students and professionals, including for English language training. Located on the second floor of the Reves Center, the GEO facilitates the university's study abroad programs including undergraduate academic year/semester exchange and sponsored semester study abroad programs, as well as W&M faculty-led study abroad programs during the summer, winter break, and other university breaks. We administer more than 45 W&M-sponsored study abroad programs in more than 25 countries. In addition, through GEO, students have the opportunity to enroll in over 200 non-W&M study abroad programs. Thanks to the generosity of private donors, typically GEO also awards more than $700,000 in need- and merit-based study abroad scholarships each year. For more information on credits earned through study abroad, see the catalog section, "Transfer Credit for Enrolled Students."

William & Mary currently has partner university agreements with some of the top institutions internationally, including the University of Adelaide (Australia), Vienna University of Economics & Business (Austria), McGill University (Canada), Tsinghua University (China), the Universities of Exeter and Nottingham (England), Cardiff University (Wales), Institut d'Études Politiques de Lille (France), Paul Valéry University, Montpellier III (France), Akita International University (Japan), Keio University (Japan), Leiden University (The Netherlands), St Andrews University (Scotland), the National University of Singapore and Yonsei University (South Korea). W&M-sponsored semester programs are currently offered in La Plata (Argentina), Oxford University (England), Montpellier (France) and Seville (Spain). Please note that availability of specific programs varies each year. Students are encouraged to contact the Global Education Office and check the website at <https://www.wm.edu/studyabroad>.

Summer and winter break faculty-led study abroad programs are sponsored by W&M in around 20 countries, including Argentina, Australia, Brazil, Czech Republic, France, Germany, Greece, India, Ireland, Italy, Rwanda, South Africa, Spain, Switzerland, United Kingdom and others. New programs are developed regularly and the complete program list can be found at studyabroad.wm.edu.

In addition, GEO administers the Keio University/ William & Mary Cross Cultural Collaboration program, which allows for Japanese and American students to study together questions of cultural difference and national identity in Williamsburg during the summer. GEO also supports the Young African Leaders Initiative (YALI) as well as various specialized English language training programs.
